

Emily, District Golfer

By: Mallory Erickson

The girls golf team had a lot of exciting and eventful achievements this season. They actually have beaten their school record three times in one season. Emily Capostosti, a sophomore at Perry High School, has been on varsity golf for two years. Emily Capostosti said, “This year is different from last year because we had more opportunities and got to do more.” Last year for golf their season was exactly normal with wearing masks etc.

Emily Capostosti as a sophomore was the only one from Perry High school going into districts, “It's a good learning experience but kind of stressful at the same time.” Emily believes that more girls will be going to districts next year when they have more time to prepare.

A reason how they got so far as a team is because they were able to go out this year and do team bonding activities. There were also many goals set in the beginning of the season, Emily's goal was, “To shoot in the 30s and I did reach my goal”. This year's golf season everyone grew and will be even stronger for next season.
