

Roaring Homecoming

By: Kiersten Setting

Perry High School had their homecoming for the first time in two years. The Art club chose for the theme to be “Roaring Twenties.” Homecoming was held in the high school cafeteria and with decorations they transformed the venue into the “Roaring Twenties.” Student council and Art club had a D.J. and also a photobooth. Both the student council and the art club did an amazing job.

The Homecoming queen, Juliana Kifus, and the homecoming king, Joey Conroy, were announced at the Friday night football game the day before the homecoming dance. Juliana Kifas’s experience through being on homecoming court she says “It was bitter sweet.” But when she won queen she said, “I felt a wave of shock and emotion. My grandma had passed away a few days before and my first thought was wanting to tell her all about it and how much I wished she would be there.” Juliana was very well deserved with her spot as queen. Thank you everyone that helped support our homecoming court throughout the week.

Before homecoming many people that were attending went to a nice restaurant with their date or their group of friends and then went to get pictures in their amazing dresses and suits. After that they proceeded to make their way to the dance floor. While students walked in, we had a photographer taking pictures of students that were attending. You can find all the pictures on the Perry Community page on Facebook. This was an amazing new experience for all the classes to get to come back to normality with this dance that hasn’t occurred in two years.
