

PSL Sponsors

Vimbai Ndlovu

PSL, Perry Service Learning, is a program for Perry seniors to help out and give back to the community. Filled with creative projects, and building new things to benefit the community, this can also benefit the students after high school with money for college. Now for all the major projects, the program has to have the money to do them. This is why PSL has sponsors. Some of PSL's sponsors are ReMax Renovations and Teleradiology Consultants, Inc. Whether they're 5,000 dollar or 5 dollar donors, they're still important. It shows that they see value in the work the PSL students do both in our local and global communities.

Each of the sponsors' reasons for supporting PSL is different. Some local businesses want to build a public relationship with the school, and some are just generous. Some former PSL students, who are now business owners and philanthropists, comment that they benefited from their experiences in PSL and are eager to ensure the program stays open.

Without sponsors, the PSL students would have to take a different approach to the work they do. For example, some sponsors fund the SMART goal project supplies. Without their generosity and help, that opportunity might look different. Likewise, some sponsors fund PSL scholarships. PSL is able to give away 5,000 dollars for graduating PSL students each year because of their sponsors.
