

Working With Briana

By: Kyleigh Martin

Working at a convenient store seems boring, but when you add food, trust me you're getting somewhere. Briana Smith is a student at Perry High School, and she amazingly holds work and school. She works at the Perry Village Market, and we learned a couple things from Smith. She likes to work at the market, she would like to stay there until she can get up on her feet. Smith loves hanging out while working with her manager. She says, "He is like a father figure for me." She is very close with three different people at the market: her manager Nick, his wife Nikki who is also a full time manager, and also her friend Kyleigh who also works at The Market. Smith likes to be called Bro or Bri while she is working. She says "I don't mind either Bri, or bro works." Smith normally works with four people every shift, she also prefers to work in the kitchen. Smith thinks Nick is the funniest person that works at the market. Smith's shifts normally start around three. Smith also mentioned that she liked making pizzas over subs any day. Smith mentions that she likes hanging out with many people that work there. You're not supposed to be listen to music while working, Smith mentioned. She told us about the hiring process, hiring under 18 is a yes in some cases, but not unless they need the help. Her top two favorite things working at the market are messing around with Nick and making pizzas. Smith likes her job very much, and she also will continue working there.
